COVID 19 update

Current status

Last week, Utah Department of Health released additional details about Utah's "steady state." Free testing is shutting down and people should seek treatment with their regular providers.

Vaccines are still available widely and for free at community clinics and pop-up locations.

The County and the State have begun to update data dashboards weekly instead of daily.

The County dashboard will focus on hospitalizations, deaths, vaccine coverage, and outbreaks rather than individual cases of illness in our community.

The transmission index will no longer be used. People should refer to the CDC COVID-19 Community Levels.

In our weekly updates to you, we'll be showing you the wastewater tracking results instead of the county testing bar graph.

New county weekly summary:

A large orange circle is positioned on the left side of the slide, partially cut off by the edge. It contains the text 'Second boosters now allowed for certain populations' in white.

Second boosters now allowed for certain populations

CDC updated recommendations allow certain immunocompromised individuals and people over the age of 50 who received an initial booster dose at least 4 months ago to be eligible for another booster.

National Wastewater Surveillance System (NWSS)

CDC's NWSS works with local health departments to track SARS-CoV-2 levels in wastewater so communities can act quickly to prevent the spread of COVID-19.

Wastewater sampling is considered an accurate early leading indicator of whether COVID-19 is spreading in a community, especially when testing is not timely or publicly recorded.
